Subject:	RE: JSTOR Participant Lists

Hi ████ and thanks ████

From my perspective, there are 3 issues to be addressed. The display for these institutions can be found here...

http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/participants

1. Notice 'A' as the first entry. We are not sure where this is coming from, but also notice Account - ITHAKA Naming Conventions-ITHAKA Customer Name - English is an entry as well. This is a column header from the source file which needs to be ignored in the XML transform.

2. Notice the 2nd and 3rd entry...

AABâ€"Riinvest University	Access Information	Kosovo
AAB–Riinvest University	Access Information	Kosovo

...if you scroll through the list, it appears that most institutions with a diacritic or symbol are being duplicated on the list (comma seems to be alright, but not dash, apostrophe or any 'foreign' diacritics. We can get the list to generate without the foreign diacritics, but we need it to function with apostrophes and dashes. Perhaps one adjustment will allow for them all.

3. We are getting reports that the U page is not loading. Since there are so many universities on that page, I am wondering if we can think about a solution that allows for faster load time.

Thanks,

Hi ████████

I spoke with ███ about the data problems with the participants list. Are you or ███ able to provide me more specifics on the data problems? Is there a problem with the data and/or the output? Also, is there a URL were we can see the issue?

If it is best for me to work directly with ████, I will be happy to do so.

Thanks,

Hi ███████

Nice to hear from you. Welcome back.

I believe the Participants list is a dynamic list from this feed:
http://███████████████████████████████████ When the feed is updated the partcipants list on the website dynamically updates.

███████is out today, however I will follow up with ███on Monday to confirm the participants list works as I believe it does. If it does not, we will work directly with ████ to discuss how the feed should be updated, etc.

Thanks,

Hi,████–

Thanks very much for working with ████ on some of the questions we've had. I've been out of the office quite a bit and ██████stepped in to help. I'm now back in the office on a more consistent basis, I hope, and will be refocusing on the about.jstor.org site.

I do have one immediate question for you. I know ████coordinated the participant lists work with you and

███ and I don't have a good understanding of how those were produced. There are some data problems on the list, and we need to update them and add/remove participants. I'm wondering we could put ████████ ████████████████ in direct contact with █████ to work on those lists? ██████ team manages that data and produces the list, and I've copied ███ on this message.
